Online Training Courses for ASD therapy

BNC's online training courses and webinars are designed to train parents, carers and therapy assistants who support children with Autism Spectrum Disorder (ASD). Based on Pivotal Response Treatment (PRT) as part of an Early Intensive Behavioural Intervention (EIBI) approach, these courses build practical skills for using everyday activities and interactions as therapy — helping parents and therapy assistants reinforce a child's individualised treatment plan between clinical sessions.

Completion of these courses and webinars does not confer professional registration or qualification. Participants who are not registered health practitioners should not use these techniques in a clinical or therapeutic capacity without supervision by a registered psychologist for guidance.
